mile line of march was thronged with people. In many places the streets were almost impassable, even to the soldiers, Es-shouted at by a little boy brother, swelling with glory, "Hello, Bill, don't ye see me?" Human nature is human nature the world over. There are times when it will assert itself regardless of appearances or consequences.

A greater sight for sympathy is seldom seen than that view from the city hall as the Fifth were marching down Main to Second street. The men marched four abreast by solid companies, and the movements of each man of the company were in exact unison with every other. The company seemed to be an organism in itself, every part of which responded reflexing likewise were harmonious parts of the regiment, and Colonel Moore, at the head of his men, looked severy inch a soldier.

There was a slight delay in leaving Fairmount park. The Fifth regiment had to wait at the car depot while the Third's officers breakfasted, but in time the soldiers of the Third arrived, they all piled into the cars in waiting, and at a few minutes after 7 o'clock the start was made. Arrived at Ninth street, the soldiers left to Independence avenue. After waiting for the lectric cars, marching up Spruce street to Independence avenue. After waiting for the men had been ordered to take their time and they marched leisurely westward on the avenue, receiving the cheers of the multitudes that lined the sidewalks. They say that the civilian has no show with the fair sex when soldlers are about. But it is a fact that, while they make less demit is a fact that, while they make less demonstration, the sight of long lines of marching men thrills the heart of the most stolid

ONCE BELIEVED TO BE THE ONLY CURE FOR PILES AND RECTAL DISEASES.

A Better Way Now Discovered, Which Cures Every Form of Piles Without Pain or Inconvenience.

Happily all this suffering is no longer necessary since the discovery of the Pyramid Pile Cure; a remedy which is approved by the medical profession, as being absolutely safe, free from any trace of opintes, narrotte or mineral poisons and which may be depended upon as a sure cure (not merely relief) in any form of piles, whether itching, blind, bleeding or protruding. Some of the hundreds of cures recently made are little short of marvelous, as a perusal of the following will demonstrate.

Major Dean, of Columbus, Chio, says: I wish to add to the number of certificates as to the benefit derived from the Pyramid Pile Cure. I suffered from piles for twenty years and from itching piles for twenty years and received more benefit and relief than from any other remedy I had used in the past iwenty years. James Jamerson, Dubaque, Iowa, says: I suffered from piles for six years; have just used the Pyramid Pile Cure and am a well man.

pecially was this true on Broadway in front of the Coates House, the official place of review. Banked up on either side of the street was one solid mass of humanity, and above the people were waving parasols and fluttering handkerchiefs.

It was a proud day for Kansas City, a proud day for her brave young soldier sons. What matter if they did not fight? It was not theirs to determine that, They were ready. They left homes and dear ones to brave dangers in camp and field, for war is harsh in whatever form you take it.

were ready. They left homes and dear ones to brave dangers in camp and field, for war is harsh in whatever form you take it.

They gave themselves to their country for service of whatever kind might be demanded until peace should return. And now there is peace again, and the boys came back to Kansas City—almost without loss of a life—browned and thin, perhaps, but stepping proudly erect and treading like regulars. And so Kansas City welcomed the Third and the Fifth reglments, United States volunteers from Missouri, welcomed them formally, in parade upon her streets; welcomed them josyfully and tearfully, remembering what might have been.

Soldiers Enjoyed It.

And the boys themselves—how good it was to see them—whole companies in blue marching as one man. In the luils between the music of the bands, the bugle calls sand the cheering, could be heard the thundering tramp, tramp, of 2.509 men stepping in unison.

The west baleony of the Coates House was made the its late valued for the personal friends were in the crowds which lined the sidewalks and filled the windows everywhere along the rouse. Moore and his staff, but it was the men of the Fifth alone who marched by the stand with arms port. Each company was cheered again and sgain as the stalwart, well drilled men marched by.

At Eleventh street both regiments turned east and marched back to the north side of the Coates House, where arms were stacked and eight men were detailed from a company to serve sandwiches and coffee. But one sandwich is not enough for a hungry soldier and some took two and three, so when the turn came for the men of the Fifth to be fed, the food supply was well nigh exhausted. Additional sandwiches were prepared by the Coates House management, but even these were insufficient, and Companies I. K. L and M. of the Third battalion went unfed until 4 o'clock, when they were apportioned to different restaurants about the city. But the boys stood the delay good naturedly, seeming to realize the fact that the committee in charge was doing the very best it knew how.

Many people suffer the pain, annoyance and other serious results from piles, for years, and after trying the many lotions, galves, ointments and many so-called cures without cure or relief, give up the hope of a final cure, rather than submit to the intense pain and danger to life which a surgical operation involves.

Happily all this suffering is no longer necessary since the discovery of the Pyrator of the call of the city, and part of the men were obliged to wait till the rest had been taken to the park and the engine came back.

Being obliged to wait for the return of the train which took out the Third it was nearly 7 o'clock when the tired, hungry Fifth marched into camp.

It required only a very few minutes, however, for them to break ranks and get ready for the supper that the Camp Sanger cooks had prepared for their hungry comrades. Guard mount for the Fifth was arranged informally and the soldiers were at liberty almost as soon as they arrived at camp.

COL. MOORE'S CLOSE CALL. His Horse Fell With Him, Pinning Him to the Ground and Severely Spraining His Ankle.

Colonel Milton Moore, of the Fifth regi-ment, was painfully injured yesterday norning just as his regiment was turning onto Independence avenue from Spruce street. The colonel's horse is a spirited one, and as it was about to cross the Independence avenue car tracks while a car was going one way and a wagon the other the prancing animal struck its foot against a rail, fell down and rolled onto Colonel Moore's left leg, pinning him on the car track. The horse was on its feet in a moment, and the colonel was picked up by the passing soldiers. He said he was not much hurt, and immediately remountof the passing solutions, the sain he was not much hurt, and immediately remounted and rode through the morning parade. By the time the Fifth reached the Coates House, however, Colonel Moore's foot and ankle were so badly swollen that his boot had to be cut from his foot. Major Ward and Major Harrelson, the regimental surgeons, made an examination of the injured member, and gave it as their opinion that no bones were broken but that both foot and ankle were badly sprained.

Colonel Moore returned to Camp Sanger during the afternoon and, sitting in front of his tent last night with his injured leg resting on a chair, laughingly informed his visitors that he had not been waited upon so much before since he had been in the service. His injury is not considered serious.

FURLOUGHS THIS WEEK. Members of the Third Regiment Will Probably Be Given Thirty Day

Leaves To-morrow. Lieutenant Flynn is expected to arrive in Kansas City this morning from the government arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., to receive the ordnance and other governmen property that is in the hands of the Third Missouri volunteers, and then the men are to be given thirty days' furloughs. It are to be given thirty days' furloughs. It is expected that there will not be more than 150 men at Camp Jackson by Friday night.

Colonel Gross said last night that he had received notice from Lieutenant Flynn that he would be here to-day and that the papers are all made out so that the property can be turned over as fast as it can be checked off on the lists. When this is done the men will be furloughed immediately. Verbal furloughs are to be granted and there are no papers to be made out except the rolls which are now ready in the hands of the company officers. If progress is made as rapidly as Colonel Gross the fiands of the company officers. If progress is made as rapidly as Colonel Gross expects, some of the Third will be gone to-day and all except the guards, consisting of three lieutenants and from 130 to 150 men. will be gone by Friday night. The men who are to stay at the camp have nearly all volunteered. They are men whose homes are so distant from Kansas City that they do not care to go home to return in thirty days.

"I had no business to parade," said "Buck" last evening, "but I was so glad to get back to Kansas City that I wanted to show my friends just what kind of a soldier I was, and when I fell I did not know what hit me. It is the first attack of the kind I ever experienced, and was no doubt due to weakness and the long march. Soldiering is not, after all, what it is cracked up to be."

HUNGRY SOLDIERS HERE.

Another Opportunity for the Sensational Press to "Roast" Mr. Alger.

"Aha," said Secretary Bigelow, of the board of trade, "so some of the soldier boys went hungry to-day right here at home in Kansas City, where everybody was using their utmost endeavors to have everything pass off smoothly. And yet they wonder that there were blunders in other places, and the boys did not get all they ought to have had, at all times. I was in the civil war, and I tell you soldiering is no picnic. Soldiers don't get ice cream every day by a good deal. True it is, 'war is hell,' and soldiers get some 'hellish' treatment some times. It seems unavoidable."

MONEY FOR THE FIFTH.

"Big Jim Will Come Down" To-day and Furloughs Will Be Granted To-morrow.

The Fifth will be paid to-day. As soon as the men are paid they will be prepared to turn in their government property and go home on furlough. Lieutenant Flynn, who is to receive the property of the Third today, will receipt for that of the Fifth as soon as he is through with the Third. It is thought that this will be done in time is thought that this will be done in time so that some of the men may be paroled to-morrow and that there will be none but guards at Fairmount park by Saturday. The guard of the Fifth will be in charge of Lieutenant Wheeler and will consist of from eighty to 190 men.

The men in the guardhouse of both regiments will be required to complete their sentences before being furloughed and those who have been sentenced to do camp duty, such as guard duty or cleaning up around the camp for petty offenses, will suffer the same penalty.

No soldier who desires to stay at the camp will be required to take a furlough and all who remain will be provided for by the government. This rule will accommodate all of the men of the Fifth who live at a distance from Kansas City, even if there should be more than the required guard who do not wish to leave.

DOESN'T KNOW "BIG JIM."

Paymaster Hamner Says the Western Soldiers Created This Peculiar Title.

Major Hamner, of the paymaster's department of the United States army, who just now occupies the position of good angel to the boys of the Third and Fifth, expressed himself as considerably surprised the other day at the title of Big Jim, which the other day at the title of Big Jim, which the newspapers are bestowing upon him. "That's a new one on me." he told one of the guests at the Fairmount park ho-tel. "I've been employed as a paymaster for a good many years, but this is the first time I was ever thus designated. These Western soldiers are always originating something, and I suppose Big Jim' is one of their creations."

Adjutant General Bell inspected the camps of the Third and Fifth Missouri volunteers at Fairmount park yesterday. He will arrange for the transfer of soldiers who wish to remain in the service to regiments that are not on the list to be mustered out. He expressed himself as much pleased with the drilling of the two regiments on the streets yesterday and as more than pleased with the camps at Fairmount. The camps could not, in his opin ion, have been better located.

NO TRACE OF HAMILTON

MAN WHO SHOT MARY CHARLETON STILL AT LARGE.

Outlined His Defense and Has Employed Counsel-Will Claim the Shooting Was Outcome of Search for Stolen Horse.

No trace has yet been found of Charles Hamilton, the man for whom the county authorities are looking on the charge of shooting Mary Charleton and John Martin on Saturday night last near Buckner, Deputy Marshals Mayes, Gentry and Potts are couring the country for him, but have found no clue to his whereabouts. Mary Charleton, the victim, was reported out of danger yesterday, but she is still very low. Marshal Chiles, who is a cousin of Hamilton, yesterday said that he could not ac count for the commission of the crime. He said, however, that Hamilton was always very queer, and that he did not consider him quite right in his mind.

It is generally thought that Hamilton is out of the county, and that he has gone to relatives in Kansas. It is also thought that he will be back when the proper time comes, without the necessity of going after him, although there can be no doubt but that the authorities are anxious to lay hands on him. He has a good deal of property which he will be called upon to de fend on damage proceedings instituted by the father of the girl he is said to have shot, and he will not give this up without a struggle.

Relatives of Charles Hamilton were in Independence yesterday making arrange-ments for his defense. Should Mary Charleton recover from the murderous attack, ton recover from the murderous attack, Hamilton will come out of his hiding place and fight the several attachment suits filed against his estate. On the contrary, should Mary Charleton die, Hamilton will leave the country for good.

Thomas Hamilton, a cousin of Charles Hamilton, has made arrangements for the retention of two Independence lawyers and at lenst one in Kansas City. His defense has not been wholly agreed upon, but the attorneys in the case are busy gathering testimony to see if it will justify the plea of insanity or the line of defense suggested by Hamilton himself, that he beleved that Mary Charleton and John Martin were running off with his horse and buggy and that it was not his desire to kill them, but to recover his property.

When the trial comes up and the theory of the horse stealing is relied upon as a defense, a very elaborate case will be presented showing that Hamilton was justified to a certain extent in pulling his gun on the young counce.

to a certain extent in pulling his gun on the young couple. Yesterday one who is close to Hamilton and the Chiles gave it close to Hamilton and the Chiles gave it out that Hamilton would not be so severely censured after all of the facts were known in court. The claim is made that after Hamilton and "Spot" Brown returned from Sibley, Hamilton drove and hitched his horse Sibley, Hamiliton drove and hitched his horse to a rack near a restaurant on the main street of Buckner. It was quite dark when he tied up at the rack and went into the restaurant, where he got a lunch. After loitering around town for some time and engaging in conversation he started for his horse to go home. It will be shown in evidence that when he went to the rack to unhitch the animal the horse and buggy were gone and a thorough search was made for the animal. It will be shown that he met Will Hedrick and Hamilton borrowed his horse to search for his missing horse and buggy. It will be shown that young Martin drove a gray horse on the night in question and that Hamilton's horse was gray, and so much alike that the two animals could not be told apart in the dark. This similarity will be dwelt on strongly by the defense. Hamilton will also claim that, after securing the loan of the Hedrick horse to ride, he started toward Cobb's crossing to watch the main road. Before reaching the crossing he came up with young Martin and Miss Charleton, with the top of their buggy thrown back. Hamilton's defense will be that he could not see who was in the buggy, for the night was very dark, and that the young people talked in a low tone of voice. Hamilton will claim that he ordered the young folks or the ocsupants of the buggy to stop after engaging them in conversation. Upon the order to halt, young Martin lashed his horse into a run, trying to escape. Hamilton will claim that he again ordered the occupants of the buggy to stop, then commenced firing when they paid no heed to the demand. At the Burnley home it will be shown by Hamilton in his defense that he still insisted that it was his horse, and told Martin so after carrying the wounded girl into the house. The charge that he attempted to murder Martin while in the house is said to be untrue.

It will also be shown that Hamilton's horse and buggy were found by Alfred Lawrence on the road to Hamilton is home and that the man who was driving the to a rack near a restaurant on the main street of Buckner. It was quite dark when the house. The charge that he attempted to murder Martin while in the house is said to be untrue.

It will also be shown that Hamilton's horse and buggy were found by Alfred Lawrence on the road to Hamilton's home and that the man who was driving the horse tied up to the fence and ran through a cornfield upon the approach of Lawrence; that while Lawrence was passing he recognized the man who jumped into the cornfield and made his escape. All of this evidence will be given to bolster up the claim that Hamilton had some cause for the belief that someone was attempting to take his horse and buggy and that the similarity of the two horses and the failure of the occupants of the buggy to halt when ordered caused the shooting and that there was no malice whatever towards Martin or the girl.

If the insanity theory is adopted to clear Hamilton of his crime, it will be shown that Hamilton is a morose individual and has been acting "queerly" for the last ten years, ever since the death of his wife: that when one crosses his path or does not follow out his wish, he gets sulky and believes the world is against him and is not responsible for his actions. It is claimed that plenty of incidents of this character can be given in evidence.

People of Buckner in Independence vesterday said they were pretty well satisfied that unless more effort is made to capture Hamilton, he can roam pretty much as he will. They censure the apparent apathy of fail.

The theory that Hamilton believed that jail.

The theory that Hamilton believed that The theory that Hamilton believed that his horse was stolen will not go down with the people of Buckner. A spring wagonload of young people who left the "Old Maids' Convention" entertainment at the town hall of Buckner passed the young people on the road, recognized them, and at that time Hamilton was following on behind, only stopping his conversation when the spring wagon drove by. They believe that Hamilton knew the young people, knew that it was not his horse, and that the change of horses made with Hedrick was simply a ruse to throw people off the scent after the crime was committed. The emity between Lee McFarland, the deputy postmaster, and Hamilton, has been standing for years, and it is also known that Hamilton never came to the town of Buckner without leaving his pistol under the seat of the buggy in case he should want to use it.

The neople of Buckner think that Hamilseat of the buggy in case he should want to use it.

The people of Buckner think that Hamilton's desire to have McFarland removed and his efforts in that direction caused him to have an intense hatred for Martin and his family, that after shooting commenced Hamilton decided to kill the girl as well as the young man, while laboring under the belief that it was Mrs. Martin with her son. It is also believed that when the matter is cleared up, the taking of Hamilton's horse home was a part of the scheme to assassinate and that no attempt whatever was made to take his horse and buggy, but that the whole affair was simply a pian to make a defense sufficiently plausible to clear him of the direct charge of marder.

murder. It is also known that after the attempted It is also known that after the attempted murder Hamilton escaped by spending the night at a relative's, that he was taken in a buggy south of Buckner and remained in hiding there until Sunday night, that he was again secreted when the posses came by and on Monday made arrangements for his defense, arranging with his relatives as to what counsel should be employed and as to the care of his property.

furnished them by the Port Arthur route. They will be met at the depot by the reception committee of the Commercial Club and taken to the Midland for breakfast. From there they will go to the rooms of the Commercial Club at 11 o'clock, where they will meet the members of the club and a few hours will be spent in getting acquainted. After luncheon it is probable that they will be shown over some of the packing houses and other manufacturing institutions, taken on a drive about the city, pay a visit to the Country Club, and be otherwise entertained.

The Fort Smith visitors will probably remain in Kansas City two days, and, it they do, the Commercial Club will see to it that every moment of their stay is made enjoyable. When the Commercial Club made its trip South a few months ago the finest treatment it received anywhere was at the hands of the Commercial League, of Fort Smith, and the Kansas City people have a very warm feeling for them in consequence. At the time of that visit the promise was exacted that the league would return the visit of the Commercial Club and the visit to-morrow is a fulfillment of that pomise. The log gentlemen who are coming are the leading business men of Fort Smith and they make the trip solely for the purpose of visiting the Commercial Club.

UPHOLDS ADMINISTRATION.

General S. S. Burdett, Civil War Veteran, Says Soldiers Have Little to Complain Of.

Like most veterans of the civil war. General S. S. Burdett, ex-commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, unholds the administration in the conduct of the present war. General Burdett says that the lack of promptness in delivering that the lack of promptness in delivering food and medical supplies to the solders has been nothing like so marked this time as it was in the previous war, nor has the suffering which always accompanies war been so great. The general tells many of his own and his comrades' experiences to prove this, and stoutly maintains that the present administration has done remarkably well, all things considered.

General and Mrs. Burdett left Kansas City at 5 o'clock last evening after a few days' visit with their granddaughter. They had been in attendance at the Grand Army encompment at Cincinnati. They left for a short visit at their old home in Osceola. Mo., and will also visit in Springfield before returning to their country home in Glen Carlyn, Va. They also have a nome in Washington, D. C., where they spend much of their time. General Burdett has had a wide experience in public life. He was commander-in-chief of the Grand Army in 1886, when the encampment was held in San Francisco. For six years he represented the Sixth Missouri district in congress. He has also been the United States minister to Brazil and commissioner of the general land office. food and medical supplies to the soldiers

EVADING SLOT MACHINE LAW. Devices Resorted To by Slot Machine Owners to Come Within the

Ordinance. Slot machine owners do not take kindly to the mandate of Chief Hayes that slot machines must go. Now that Police Judge Burnham has announced his belief that any slot machine, where a player has a chance to win or lose, is a gambling device, whether winnings are paid in money or in trade, there are all sorts of ruses devised trade, there are all sorts of ruses devised to evade the law.

Perhaps the cleverest device is found in a placard posted by a cigar seller on every slot machine in his store. It reads:

"Trade machine. A Cyclone cigar given for every nickel lost in this machine."

The proprietors insist that they are complying with the law, because everyone that plays the machine gets something for his money. That something, when the nickel is lost; is a Cyclone cigar—five inches of thin twisted tobacco, noted for its delicate consistency.

HELD TO THE GRAND JURY. Captain V H. Reed, Slayer of John Falk, Must Answer for His

Crime. H. Reed, known as Captain Reed was held to the grand jury by Justice Krueger yesterday on a charge of murder. Reed kept a second-hand store at $20 East Eighteenth street, and on the night of August 39, quarreled with John Falk, an employe of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, over some transaction involving a stove. Falk was killed in the quarrel, and it was charged that Reed caused his death by striking him in the back of the head with the sharp end of a pick. The testimony at the preliminary hearing was quite strong against the prisoner.

SORES LIKERAWBEEF

On Baby's Face Neck and Breast. Ran Blood and Matter.

Had to Tie Hands to Keep from Scratching. A Bad Case. Doctor Did Little or No Good. Cuticura Cured. Skin Now Clear

A SWORN STATEMENT. When my nephew was two weeks old he had running sores on his face, neck, breast, and hands, which continued to grow worse. They looked like raw beef. Sometimes blood would come and sometimes matter. He was awfully bad. Why, we had never heard or read of such a case. My sister had to tie his hands to the hanmock to keep him from scratching himself, he itched so. He often rubbed his neck and face against his shoulders. The doctor did little or no good. Said "it came from the blood," etc. She heard of CUTI-CUEA (ointment), and I bought her a box, and finding it gave satisfaction she continued to use it. The boy is all well now and his face is clear. In order to show you my cood faith in clear. In order to show you my good faith in this matter and how pleased I am with CUTI-CURA REMEDIES, I have taken outh to above statements.
